*Hang on to your hopes, my friend,
That's an easy thing to say,
But if your hopes should pass away,
Simply build them up again.
Look around,
The grass is high
The fields are ripe,
It's the springtime of my life,
Seasons change with the scenery,
Weaving time in a tapestry.
Won't you stop and remember me?*

For his gentle patience and never-failing unselfishness in giving of himself that each of us may grow as students and as individuals

For his special touch of humor in the classroom which has enabled so many of us to see ourselves, our work, and our problems in positive perspective

For bringing all of his varied teaching subject matter to life with his own vitality and rich background of scholarship

For the inspirational example he invariably sets in speech, demeanor, and academic preparation

For his wisdom, experience, and friendship as daily Advisor in the challenging task of recording and depicting the history of the Class of 1975 in this, ours and his, 1975 Chatter

We, the Class of 1975, proudly dedicate our yearbook to People are drawn together during the last days before a new pattern is set that you discover those who were raised partially to you. You and your friends have grown up through it the past four years more than you do most other people's life. School is to not only educate you but to introduce you to the world and to other people. This school year has is never fully appreciated until you look out the doors for the last time.

Each of your friends will leave school with a piece of your personality in their hearts. The memories of the time you shared are captured in your yearbook maps.
 You will be a part of their lives and they will be a part of yours. Old friends will gradually fade into new ones, but none will be lost. Take advantage of the bond that ties our class at this time, for with graduation comes the separation of us for a bright future.

Innovations Make Better CHS Journal Staff Shows Initiative

No newspaper can ever be truly outstanding unless it constantly improves its design and layout. The '74-'75 period saw many innovations formulated by editors Cowell and Lunetta, along with the advisor Miss McColgan, and carried out under their constant direction.

Subheads, clearly corresponding continued lines, and liberal use of photos were some examples of minor changes in the "Box's" design, others included a move to two- or three deck headlines, columns headed off with continuing art boxes, standardized by lines, kickers, and ears on the masthead.

Major revolutions were such variations as a full tabloid size, quoted headlines, and modern article layout. All changes can be summed up as a massive transition towards the modern, professional journalistic procedures.

Preparation Story Told

COPY STAFF — (seated) J. Nicolais, art editor Dave Gude, B. Almgren, G. Beaumont, (standing) J. Hubbard, J. Haminger, L. Brown

The monthly job of putting out the Chatterbox was only half through when the copy from reporters was turned in, hopefully by the deadline since typing, copyreading, paste-up, and proofing still had to be done.

Helping the editors in this task were such willing typists as Jeanne Oxley, Gail Beaumont, Beth Almgren, Trish Mahoney, Jane Collins, Carolyn Orben, Becky Hubbard, Merri Mansley, Ann Scally and Jeff Fleming, after copy editor Penny Taylor had run copyreading sessions with staffers Joan Nicolais, Sallie Howell, and others.

Paste-up meetings took the longest but the omnipresent cutters, gluers, and planners Joe Barmakian, Val Viarengo, Denise Pappas, Bill Cooper, Eric Johnson, Janet Hubbard, Sue Melly, and Dave Gude insured the accurate preparation of dummies for the printer, despite many long meetings extending late into the night, under the direction of the slave-driving editors Chip Cowell and Patty Lunetta.

ADVISOR Miss McColgan

Photos, Artwork Improve Appearance

A newspaper would certainly be incomplete without art and photos. Working hard to produce quality issues were editors Dave Gude, art, and Joe Barmakian, photography, who controlled a staff, consisting of Lyn Brown, Jon Hassinger, Rob White, Caroline Blanken, and Gordon Redgate, with much skill and foresight.

Clear, well-taken photos combined with witty artwork helped to brighten up the paper's layout and make it truly outstanding.

Reporters Write News, Features; Staff Talents Singled Out

Keeping the newspaper full of monthly news stories, features, and editorials was never easy for the burgeoning staff of 70. Assignments were often tough and much legwork was necessary in a short amount of time.

Steadfast senior reporters included the dependable trio of Sue Schinner, Lisa Hartigan, and Janet Hubbard. Often taking on two or three assignments, these writers always turned out "clean copy," on topics ranging from homework help to senior proms.

A host of talented reporters filled out the Chatterbox columns with well-written and researched stories of all aspects of school life dealing with such subjects as AFS events to candystrapping Debbie W. Williams, Joelle Frahn, Carolyn Orben, Frank Haas, Bill Cooper, Sue Melly, Jane Collins, Mike Gess, Mary Ann Tugger, Amy Mann, and Sue Sanne.

Editorialists Ann Gregory, Peter Melly, and Wayne Smith often stirred controversy with their provocative and lambasting satires on school problems and situations ranging from the lunch improvement campaign to smoking posters and the honor roll system.

Juniors, too, penned articles for the "Box's" pages. Karen King, Pam Rich, Rick Ahsler, Mary Ellen Williams, Bruce Spidell, Eric Johnson, Anita Broderick, Ginny Bell, and Bob Haas always had stories to provide on such challenging subjects as state education spending and school history as well as more commonplace yet nonetheless necessary topics as school events and career possibilities.

Other well-versed writers included Pam Cirirot, known for her witty satires on school life, Jeanne Oxley and Val Viarengo, always hard-working and punctual, Mike Nicolais and Doug Behre, skilled senior reporters, Mary Jane Potter, a talented writer with clear insight, Abby Archer and Annette Pelosi, reporters with a keen of newspaper lore. Martha Murvin and Daryl Savage, talented sophomores with a good grasp of journalism, and Debbie Smith, who penned many an interesting story.

Outstanding stories of the year included "A Groggy Day," "View From the Bottom," "Chatterbox Poll," "You Call That Food," "Looking Into the Past," "Cafeteria Criteria," and "Pumpkin Patch," as well as numerous research articles which revealed much nostalgia and CHS history.

Writers Record Sports Events

SPORTS STAFF

Sports writing never lacked talent in the 1974-'75 school year. With such skilled editors as junior Bill Deally and senior Denise Pappas at the helm, the "back page" was often the best-planned part of the paper.

In addition to the columnists, Ginny Bell, Anita Broderick, Kevin Morison, Randy Rosenberger, and Peter Martine filled out the last page with incisive, penetrating accounts of sports events, kept alive with professional language and good expression.

Outstanding ideas for the year included a conference sports ranking, sports side-ight articles, and numerous pictures.

Facilities Allow Improvements

The Chatterbox's inside feature pages this year always saw special ads for the various businesses and students at CHS. Heading the list were monthly columns which provided much information dealing with specialized areas.

SCRIBES — (back row) P. Lunetta, J. Holt, J. Barmakian, P. Minde (seated) F. Courtney, V. Viarango, A. Pelosi, J. Pitzzenmayer

Peter Minde, Jeff Holt, Diane Young, Bob Rumsey, Dave Brown, Jeff Dodge, and Jeff Cochran penned the always unusual "Rockin' On" column.

'75 Chatter

Once upon a time there was a hard-working Chatter staff who had Friday night bonfires. One day a question was asked, "Who's got the camera?" and it was soon discovered that the camera had been ruined in a dark room disaster. The marathon printing record now stands well over a hundred and Mrs. Germany is serving Pepperidge Farm cookies with milk, orange juice, or tomato juice. We ate the whole box and the stove died so we went to Dunkin' Donuts at 4:30 A.M. There were terrific pies but will it ever remain a secret? Then Stanking came to visit and we didn't know his real name so we invited him to a Chatter Dinner and asked him if we would make it all night. Next the Phantom Senior struck again and when we asked him where Nick's flower was he said it was in a locker whose combination was either 9-33-23 1-9-26, 2-16-7, or 22-37-6. When asked how to spell "holcky-toicky," he replied that it would only cost 270 dollars and that he would tell us at the Tennis Tournament. Meanwhile, Chiply established a business, but was forced to liquidate when the Great Orange Juice Spill occurred. Oh, hi, Sara(h)! ... Where are you going to school? ... Really, I did their book Lyn was sketching a portrait of Lis while Hub served up some sarcasm. Nancy went back into history and Mark was being a real sport while Peluch did a layout with many teeny weeny pictures. Then Joe and Jon were snapping pictures of a magic book and when everything was done we called and said, "I know, but can we have 8 more pages?" Soon after we got a bug and were sick until we found a ticket to happiness. When the book was all done we were so sad so Joe wrote this crazy story and we wished the Ranger many thanks and a saner '76 staff!

Sallie-

What can I say - it doesn't seem possible that it's yearbook time again! Don't ever forget Miss Endler and Algebra. What a riot - trying to understand quadratic formula at 8:45 in the morning. Then English - buggy Paul! Our companions of Lafayette - babysitting - so many things!! I think this year I've gotten to know you a lot better (or worse - only kidding!) Well - seniors next year! GOOD LUCK & TAKE CARE (wankees!) - Nancy

I'll never forget our dear Algebra II class. That time I got an 84 on the last test! I should have done that well throughout the year. Even Miss Endler liked at the elegant card. That was a fun class even though my grades weren't fun. This year summed up go so rest, we'll be seniors and then out of school! to the Graduating Class of 1975 Hope I see you more next

LOST & FOUND

Memories of the

'Twas The Night Before Thanksgiving

'Twas the night before Thanksgiving
And all through the evening
Not a junior was idle
Not one thought of leaving

The sewers were ready
With needles and threads
While pushers envisioned them
Piercing their heads

The flowers were sewn
With too little care
And throughout the wire
There were spots that were bare

With Kenn and his power tools
And Chip and his smoke
This whole operation
Was no longer a joke

When from the basement
There rose such a clutter,
We all rushed to see
Just what was the matter

The pin-pals weren't pushing
The fans couldn't sew,
When Bob Murphy announced
Two strikes in a row

We all wrote our postcards
And sent them that day,
In hopes that the jackpot
Would break the same way

Our leader was Peter
He wasn't too slick
But in the end
He did the trick

More rapid than eagles
His orders they came
He bossed and he shouted
And called us by name

On Chipper! On Kenner!
On Roby! and Joe
Work Susie! Push Pammy
So others may sew!

From the end of the float
To the top of the cab Mike promised us forty Only eighteen we had

Up to the windows
The dummies they flew,
And onto the engine
Came Lyn's seal too

And then in a twinkling
Our train came to be,
But how it was done
Is a mystery to me

The engine, Chip's sound,
The whole thing was great,
But it needed one thing
And that Chip could make

We marched to the school
With a confident air,
But our hopes were dampened
By what happened there

Jim lighted the stuff
That gave us the smoke,
But then it caught fire
And we started to choke

We sat at the rally
And cheered loyally,
We hoped and we prayed That winners we'd be

They called out "Juniors!"
We rose in a flash,
And then Peter started
His victory dash

He returned to us all
His smile was bright,
He cried, "Victory to Juniors,"
To Seniors, "Good Night!"

It is sad that such an experience must turn to memory, but we await the good times still ahead.
